A SUDDEN DEATH.

The death of Dr. Franklin George, resident physician of Hollins Institute, which occurred Friday night, was a great shock to his friends. Though evidently apprehensive in regard to his physical condition for some time, he was engaged, as usual, to a late hour in familiar conversation and ordinary duties. Not appearing at breakfast, on visiting his room, he was found dead, the sudden and sad end having come apparently without struggle or pain. His brother, Dr. George, of Danville, has been summoned. Dr. George has been resident physician of the Institute only since September 8, but in this brief period has proved himself, in personal character, professional skill and fidelity to duty and the general interest of the school, eminently adapted to the position he held. Pupils and teachers alike felt endeared to him as personal friends and earnestly deplored his untimely demise. Sadness and gloom have suddenly cast sombre shadows over scenes of joyous delight and anticipations. The pupils' concert announced on come off last night at 7:30 p. m. has been postponed until further notice.

IT WAS A WHOPPER.

A Times reporter in passing through the freight depot yesterday noticed the largest barrel ever seen in this community. It was like a large hoghead and bore the address of Henry Scholz. The barrel contained 125 gallons of Rhine wine and came from Germany. It had been on the road for six weeks and was in first-class condition. The size of the barrel was the wonder of the depot men and all who saw it.

A MUCH-WANTED NEGRO.

A letter was received at police headquarters from I. T. Colman, agent at Nolans, W. Va., asking Chief Dyer to arrest William H. Johnson, a colored man, who stole four tickets from that office on October 21, '97. The man wanted is now in the city jail awaiting the grand jury, having been arrested by Detective Baldwin on November 15, '97, for forging an order on Baldwin's Detective Agency.

HUSTINGS COURT.

The case of F. A. Barnes vs. D. P. Morrison occupied the attention of the hustings court all yesterday. Hoge & Hoge represented the plaintiff while Judge William G. Robertson and N. T. Lewis, of Lynchburg, represented the defendant. The following was the jury in the case: C. S. Beller, R. D. McClintock, W. T. Ledbetter, Robert Hagerroft, Edward White, W. C. Bondurant, C. E. Roberts, J. H. Housewright, I. A. Campbell, J. M. Roberts, E. R. Browning and A. L. Riffe. The jury in the case of Wilson Wertz vs. W. H. Karnes failed to agree and was discharged.

The jury in the case of Barnes vs. Morrison brought in a verdict for the plaintiff awarding him $1,360. The case was not given to the jury until about 7 o'clock and the verdict was brought in about 8:30.

A FALSE ALARM.

There was an alarm of fire turned in yesterday evening about 6:30 from box 51, to which the Juniors and Friendships responded very promptly. It was found that the alarm was turned for a supposed fire at the residence of J. P. Trent, on the corner of Ninth avenue and Henry street, but which was only a false alarm. Some paper and stuff which was in one of the flues became lighted and the inmates of the house thinking that some of the rafters in the house were on fire turned in the alarm.
